INTRODUCTION

The Heritage Property Act enables both the provincial government and municipal governments to designate heritage property, and requires the province to maintain a registry of all designated properties. This directory provides a list of all designated properties reported to the Registrar of Heritage Property by January 2000.

Since The Heritage Property Act was passed by the provincial legislature in 1981, the Government of Saskatchewan has designated 35 sites as Provincial Heritage Property. "Heritage property," as defined by the Act, is any object or property that is "of interest for its architectural, historical, cultural, environmental, archaeological, palaeontological, aesthetic or scientific value." Designation as Provincial Heritage Property indicates that a heritage property is provincially important, and gives the province the power to regulate proposed alterations to the building so as to preserve its heritage character. Properties designated Provincial Heritage Property are listed in the first section of this directory.

Heritage property that is important to the local community may be designated Municipal Heritage Property. More than 300 urban and rural municipal councils in Saskatchewan have passed bylaws designating more than 600 individual sites as Municipal Heritage Property. Sites that have been designated Municipal Heritage Property are listed in the second section of this directory in alphabetical order by the name of the designating municipality. Included with the Municipal Heritage Property are several sites located on Indian Reserves that have been protected by resolutions of the Band Council. In a few cases, municipalities wishing to preserve sites that are not within their jurisdiction have negotiated Preservation Agreements with the owners of the property. Such Preservation Agreements are also included in the Municipal Heritage Property section.

Except where otherwise credited, all photographs are from the files of the Heritage Unit, Saskatchewan Municipal Affairs, Culture and Housing.

Notices of Intention Issued 1

The following Provincial Heritage Properties are listed in alphabetical order by the urban or rural municipality in which they are located.

Pasquia Palaeontological Site

NE 26-48-11 W2, E of Carrot River
Arborfield RM No. 456

Current Name: Pasquia Palaeontological Site

Date of Origin: precontact
Date of Designation: July 13, 1995

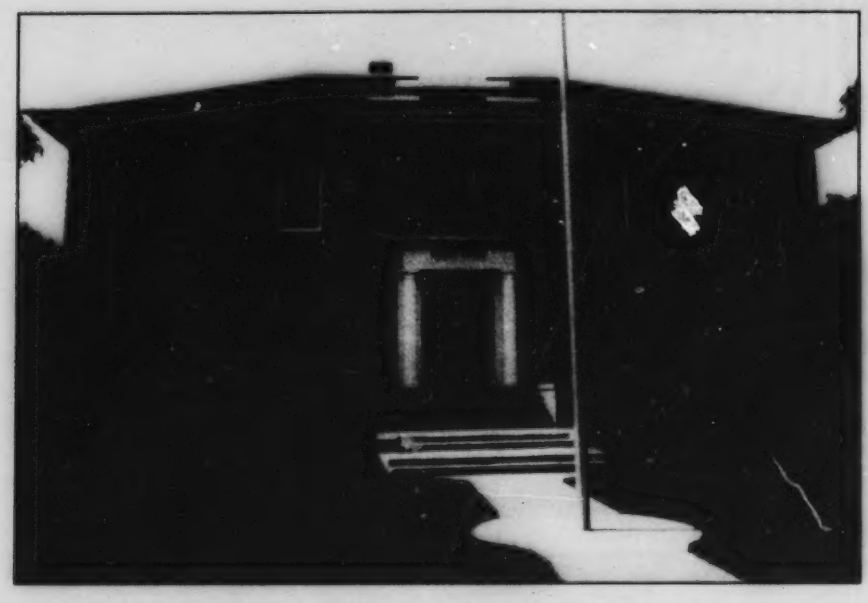
Owner: David Dickson Hardie

Heritage Significance:

Over 90 million years ago, during the Cretaceous period, east-central Saskatchewan was covered by an interior sea. Today the sedimentary rocks exposed along the Carrot River tell a unique story. Fossilized fish and bird skeletons, shark teeth, plesiosaurs, and a nearly complete primitive crocodile skeleton have been found. These geological "pages" from our past are nowhere else seen in such vivid detail, quality and quantity of fossil remains.

Assiniboia Court House

700 Centre Street
Assiniboia



Original and Current Name: Assiniboia Court House
Date of Origin: 1930
Date of Designation: February 15, 1988

Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

In 1925 Provincial Architect Maurice Sharon developed a standard plan for judicial buildings in smaller urban centres. Half the size of his previous court houses, these structures were erected at Gravelbourg (1926), Shaunavon and Wynyard (1927), Melfort (1928) and Assiniboia (1930). The Assiniboia Court House, with its symmetry of design, brick detailing and handsome main entrance, is an excellent example of Sharon's modified Colonial Revival style. Its unique placement, at the head of Centre Street, greatly adds to the aesthetic value of the building.

Battleford Land Registry Office

3rd Street West

Battleford

Original Name:	Land Registry Office
Alternate Names:	Residence; maternity hospital; Greenwood Residence
Current Name:	Battleford Land Registry Office Heritage Site
Date of Origin:	1877
Date of Designation:	May 9, 1983
Owner:	Town of Battleford

Heritage Significance:

This building was the first land registry office in the North-West Territories, and is the oldest such structure in Saskatchewan. Constructed of bricks made locally, it was used as a land registry office for about 30 years, closing in 1908 when the new land titles office opened on the north side of the Battle River, closer to the downtown core of Battleford. The older office served as a private residence from that date until 1990. It presently stands vacant.

Government House, Battleford

Government Ridge
Battleford

Original Name:	Government House
Alternate Name:	Battleford Indian Industrial Academy, etc.
Current Name:	Battleford Government House Heritage Site
Date of Origin:	1876-1877
Date of Designation:	March 27, 1984
Owner:	Missionary Oblates of St. Mary's Province
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Heritage Significance:

This was the first permanent residence of the Lieutenant Governor of the North-West Territories and was the legislative centre for the appointed Territorial Council. More than two-thirds of the geographic land mass of Canada was administered out of this centre from 1877 until 1882, when the Territorial capital was moved to Regina. Government House and its reserve were then transferred to the Indian Department for use as an Indian Industrial School. This was the first Indian residential school in western Canada. The school was abandoned for a short period during the North-West Rebellion of 1885. It was eventually closed due to declining enrolment. The Western Canadian Union Conference of Seventh Day Adventists leased the building from the Department of the Interior for use as an academy, and purchased it in 1930. This was their first boarding school in Saskatchewan. The Oblates of Mary Immaculate, a Roman Catholic religious order, purchased the building in 1931. This is one of fewer than ten buildings remaining in Saskatchewan known to have been built before 1880.

Tipperary Creek Archaeological Site

Corman Park RM No. 344

Current Name: Wanuskewin Heritage Park (portion)

Date of Origin: precontact
Date of Designation: February 20, 1984

Owner: Wanuskewin Heritage Park Corporation

Heritage Significance:

The designated portion of Wanuskewin Heritage Park encompasses the Tipperary Creek valley where it meets the South Saskatchewan River. It contains 19 precontact heritage sites including ancient campsites, bison kill and processing areas, and a ceremonial structure. Most of the camp sites at Wanuskewin are found in the sheltered valley bottom, and were probably occupied in winter. The camp sites and bison kill sites, which are often deeply buried as a result of natural depositional processes, are highly stratified, reflecting almost continuous seasonal use and occupation of the area, by various peoples, over 5,000 years or more. These sites are important for understanding cultural, as well as environmental, change and human adaptation during the precontact period. A small "tipi" camp, consisting of several surface stone circles and rock cairns is present up along the valley edge. The site also includes a prominent "medicine wheel", a stone circle with a large central rock cairn and several smaller peripheral cairns, regarded as a sacred place by contemporary Northern Plains aboriginal peoples.

Claybank Brick Plant

28&33-12-24 W2, SE of Claybank
Elmsthorpe RM No. 100

Original Name:	Claybank Brick Plant
Alternate Names:	Saskatchewan Clay Products; Dominion Fire Brick and Pottery Company; Dominion Fire Brick and Clay Products (1954) Ltd.
Current Name:	Claybank Brick Plant
Date of Origin:	1912-1914
Date of Designation:	March 26, 1998
Owner:	Saskatchewan Heritage Foundation
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Heritage Significance:

The Claybank Brick Plant is a remarkably intact example of an early 20th century brickmaking complex. All the key structures erected during the site's development from 1912 to 1937 and much of the original brick making equipment survive. Using clay mined on site for most of its products, the plant became a major manufacturer of domestic clay firebrick and other refractory products for the railway, oil refining, power and metallurgical industries. The distinctive buff-coloured face brick that it also produced can be found on buildings across the prairies and as far east as Quebec.

Estevan Court House

1016 Fourth Street
Estevan

Original and Current Name: Estevan Court House
Date of Origin: 1930
Date of Designation: February 15, 1988

Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

This building, completed in 1930, is the last court house designed by Saskatchewan's Provincial Architect, Maurice Sharon. Faced with local Estevan pressed brick, it is a fine example of the Colonial Revival style. In 1931, miners in the Estevan area struck for better wages and working conditions, and recognition of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada. Three strikers were killed on September 29th when police confronted a strikers' parade in front of this building. Later that year, a Royal Commission met here to investigate the causes of the strike. Twenty people were charged as a result of the incident, known as Black Tuesday, and their trials were conducted here the following March.

Hudson's Bay Company Store

Broadway Street and Company Avenue
Fort Qu'Appelle

Original Name:	Hudson's Bay Company Store
Alternate Name:	Pioneer General Stores
Current Name:	Hudson's Bay Company Store
Date of Origin:	1897
Date of Designation:	November 8, 1983
Owner:	Chaplin Holdings Ltd.

Heritage Significance:

This building represents the transition of the Hudson's Bay Company from a fur trading operation to a retail merchandising business. Built in 1897 under the direction of Chief Factor Archibald McDonald, it captured most of the trade on the north side of the Qu'Appelle Valley. McDonald oversaw its operation for 14 of the 20 years that The Bay owned the store. In 1917 the company sold it to Pioneer General Stores, which ran it until 1970. The Province bought the building in 1975 and undertook considerable stabilization. The store was sold to Jim Chaplin in 1985 and restored for commercial use.

Melville Municipal Building

420 Main Street
Melville

Original Name: Melville Town Hall/Opera House
Current Name: Melville City Hall

Date of Origin: 1912-1913
Date of Designation: April 3, 1991

Owner: City of Melville

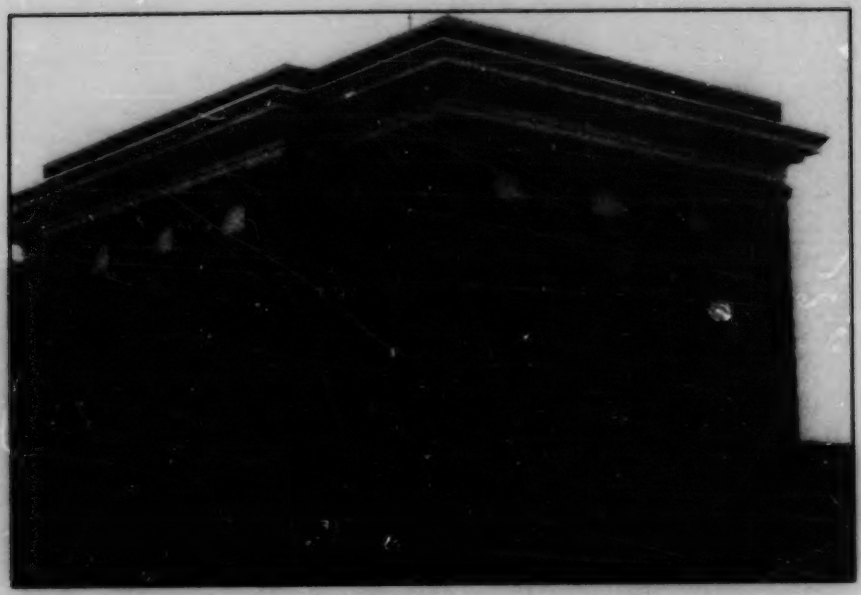
Other Protection: Municipal Heritage Property

Heritage Significance:

This building was designed by the prominent Regina architectural firm of Storey and Van Egmond. The seat of the city's municipal government, it also served as the Melville Court House from 1914 until 1969, when a new court house was constructed. The roof is surmounted with a large dome, a unique feature in such municipal administration buildings in Saskatchewan.

Moose Jaw Court House

64 Ominica Street West
Moose Jaw



Original and Current Name: Moose Jaw Court House
Date of Origin: 1908-1909
Date of Designation: February 15, 1988

Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Other Recognition: Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Heritage Significance:

The Moose Jaw Court House, completed in January 1909, is the oldest continuously functioning provincial court building in Saskatchewan. It replaced an earlier wood frame court house at High Street and 9th avenue which was built in 1893 and demolished in 1927. Its construction launched a program to replace frontier-style Dominion Government court houses with impressive buildings more in keeping with boom time growth expectations. Built of concrete and steel and faced with hydraulic pressed brick and Bedford Stone, the building's stately architecture, sturdy construction and optimistic size have allowed it to be adapted to modern uses. It is atypical of later Saskatchewan court houses and the only one designed by Darling and Pearson, the noted Toronto architects who served, very briefly, as the province's first official architects. The classical dignity imparted to the structure by its flanking entrance columns and dominant entablature strongly reflects the styling of numerous of the architects' contemporary commercial designs.

Addison Homestead Residence

NE of Kindersley
Oakdale RM No. 320

Original Name: Addison Sod House
Current Name: Addison/Gardiner Residence

Date of Origin: 1910-1911
Date of Designation: November 23, 1992

Owner: Edith Gardiner and Lenore McTaggart

Heritage Significance:

With little lumber or brick available, many homesteaders in early Saskatchewan built their homes of sod. When English immigrant James Addison drove to this site by ox cart from Saskatoon in 1908, he observed the deterioration of sod houses only a few months, or years, old. Determined not to repeat these design errors, the next year he began this architecturally unique home which was completed in 1911. With its sloped walls made of two thicknesses of carefully cut and laid sod, this is the only known inhabited sod house in Canada.

Prince Albert Town Hall/Opera House

1010 Central Avenue
Prince Albert

Original Name:	Prince Albert Town Hall/Opera House
Alternate Name:	Prince Albert City Hall
Current Name:	Prince Albert Arts Centre
Date of Origin:	1892
Date of Designation:	April 3, 1991
Owner:	City of Prince Albert
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada
Other Protection:	Municipal Heritage Property

Heritage Significance:

Prince Albert's Town Hall/Opera House is representative of a turn of the century phenomenon when facilities like this were constructed throughout Saskatchewan. The building also housed the magistrate's court and jail in the basement. It served as Town/City Hall until 1969, when it was converted into an arts/senior citizens centre. The building combines the architectural features of the late Victorian and Second Empire styles.

Balfour Apartments

2305 Victoria Avenue
Regina

Original Name: Balfour Apartments
Current Name: Balfour Condominiums

Date of Origin: 1929-1930
Date of Designation: September 29, 1993

Owner: Nicor Management Corporation, et al

Other Protection: Municipal Heritage Property

Heritage Significance:

Designed by Van Egmond and Storey and built by Smith Brothers and Wilson, this building was commissioned by prominent Regina lawyer James Balfour. One of the largest and last such structures constructed in depression era Saskatchewan, the Balfour contained state-of-the-art technology, including Regina's first self-operated elevator. The building is of mixed architectural styles employing Baronial and Spanish-Moorish detailing. It is constructed of local Claybank brick accented by fine hand carved stonework. Nicor Group began restoration of the Balfour in 1984.

Bank of Commerce

1736 Scarth Street (Cornwall Centre)
Regina

Original Name:	Bank of Commerce
Alternate Name:	The Canadian Bank of Commerce
Current Name or Use:	Monument
Date of Origin:	1911
Date of Designation:	May 31, 1978
Owner:	Chartwood Developments

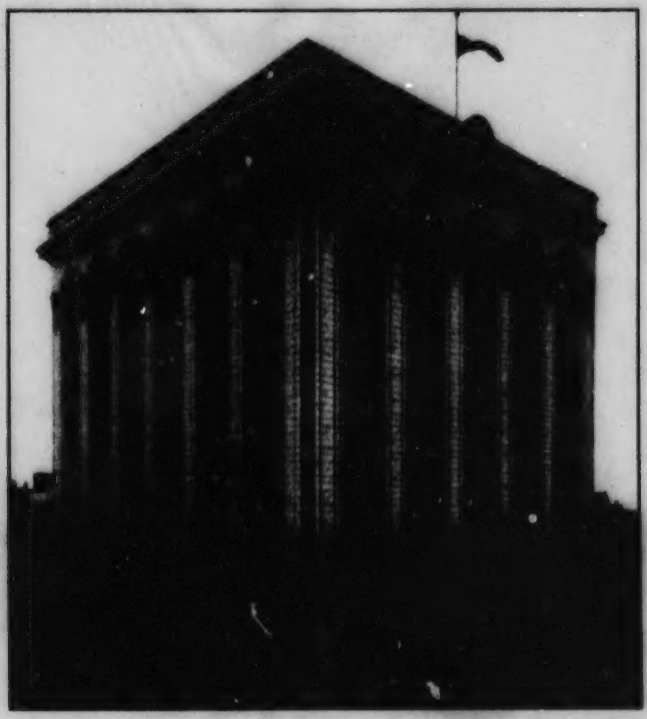
Heritage Significance:

This building was originally constructed in Winnipeg in 1900, then dismantled and moved to Regina in 1911, where it functioned as the head office of the Bank of Commerce until 1969. The building was demolished in 1980, but a portion of the facade was reconstructed near its original site within the Cornwall Centre shopping mall.

Canada Life Assurance Building

2201 - 11th Avenue
Regina



Saskatchewan Archives Board Photograph No. R-B9464

Original Name:	Canada Life Assurance Building
Alternate Name:	Saskatchewan Government Insurance Office
Date of Origin:	1912-1914
Date of Designation:	April 5, 1978
Owner:	Investors Group Trust Co. Ltd.

Heritage Significance:

This building was designed by Montreal architects Brown and Vallance, as Saskatchewan corporate head office of the Canada Life Assurance Company. Completed in 1914, its white terra cotta facade is one of the province's most striking designs. When the provincial government entered into the insurance business in the mid-1940s, this structure served as headquarters for the Saskatchewan Government Insurance Office until 1979. This Provincial Heritage Property was restored in 1984 by Silver Developments Ltd.

Diocese of Qu'Appelle

College Avenue, east of Broad Street
Regina

Bishop's Court

Original Name:	Diocese of Qu'Appelle
Current Name:	Diocese of Qu'Appelle Site
Date of Origin:	1912-1926
Date of Designation:	February 11, 1980
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

This complex of buildings was for many years the headquarters of the Anglican Diocese of Qu'Appelle. The Clergy House for the Anglican Mission (1912) was designed by Montreal architects Brown and Vallance. The Railway Mission, based at this site, sent itinerant priests throughout southern Saskatchewan during the first few decades of the 20th century to help new communities establish local Anglican parishes. The building later served as the Synod Office for the Diocese. The Secretary's House (1913), designed by Storey and Van Egmond and later known as Anson House, was the official residence of the Secretary for the Diocese of Qu'Appelle from 1913 until 1980. Designed by Brown and Vallance for use as a theological College for the Anglican clergy of southern Saskatchewan, St. Chad's College (1913-1914) mainly served as the home of the Qu'Appelle Diocesan School for Girls (1919-1970). Maple Leaf Hostel (1925), designed by Regina architect Francis Portnall, was a residence for English women attending the Normal School across Broad Street. From 1952 to 1964, it was the home of St. Chad's Theological College. After acquisition of the property by the Government of Saskatchewan in 1975, the building was used by the Department of Social Services. Bishop's Court (1926), also designed by Portnall, was the official residence of the Anglican Bishop of Qu'Appelle.

Government House

4607 Dewdney Avenue
Regina

Original Name:	Government House
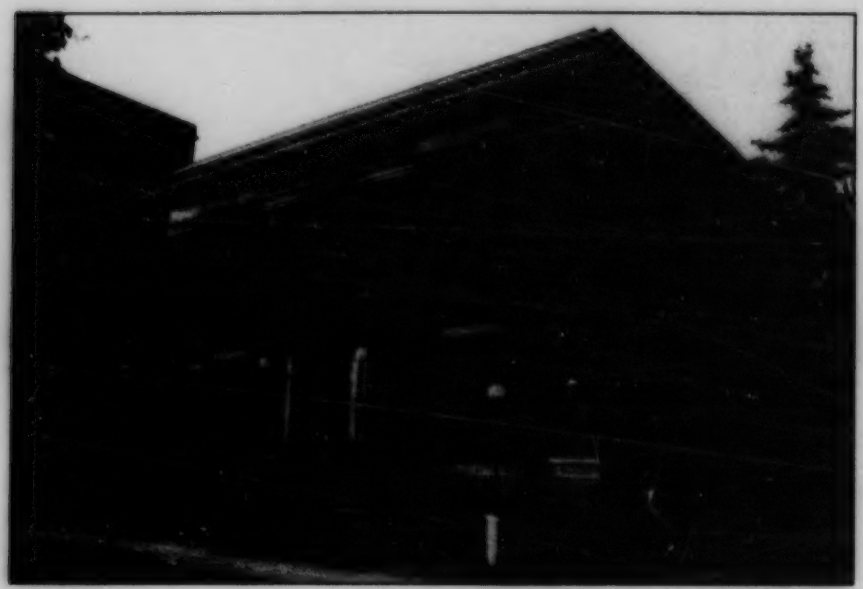
Alternate Name:	Saskatchewan House
Current Name:	Government House
Date of Origin:	1889-1891
Date of Designation:	August 26, 1981
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Heritage Significance:

Government House was the home of the Lieutenant-Governors of the North-West Territories from 1891 to 1905, and of Saskatchewan from 1905 to 1945. Later it served as a convalescence home and as a continuing education facility. The building was designed in the Victorian style by Thomas Fuller, Chief Architect of Canada, and was restored by the province in 1980. The restored portion of the residence is open for public visitation, while the ball room is used for a variety of public functions, including live theatre.

Land Titles Building

2205 Victoria Avenue
Regina



Original Name: Land Titles Building
Current Name: Administration Centre for Sport, Culture and Recreation

Date of Origin: 1907-1909
Date of Designation: February 10, 1978

Owner: Saskatchewan Municipal Affairs, Culture and Housing

Heritage Significance:

Saskatchewan's first provincial land titles building was designed by Darling and Pearson and constructed in 1907-1909. This building housed the Regina district records from 1910 until 1977. The distinctive architectural style is highlighted by the Romanesque arched windows and decorative entablature above the projecting brick columns.

Legislative Building

2405 Legislative Drive
Regina

Original and Current Name: Legislative Building
Date of Origin: 1908-1912
Date of Designation: April 20, 1978

Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

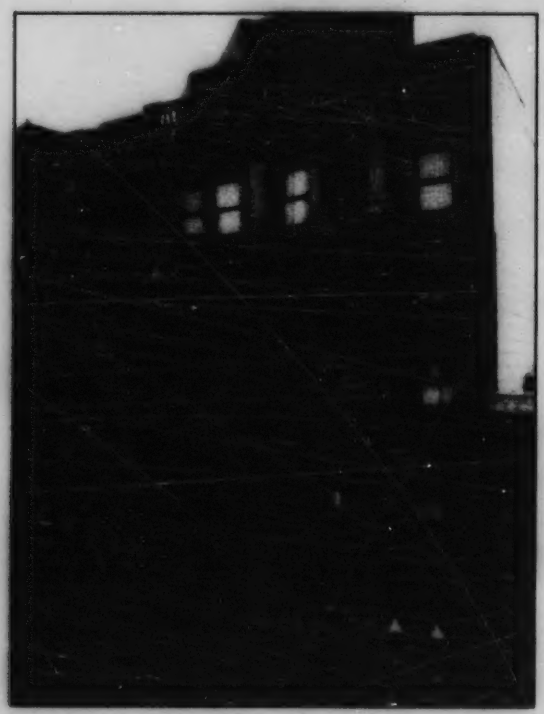
Following the formation of the Province of Saskatchewan in 1905 and the decision to maintain Regina as the capital, the government of Premier Walter Scott decided to build a Legislative Building which would serve the needs of a booming province for centuries to come. A property of 162 acres, located on the south side of Wascana Creek about two miles from the business centre of Regina was chosen as the site of the new building.

The architectural design by Edward and W. S. Maxwell of Montreal, chosen in a competition held for the purpose in 1907, combines English baroque details, such as the square-drummed tower, with a Beaux-Arts façade and massing. The building expresses stability and durability and symbolizes the province's dedication to parliamentary democracy.

The building is faced with Tyndall limestone and has a total floor space of more than 200,000 square feet. More than 34 different types of marble are used throughout the building. Construction began in 1908 and was completed in 1912.

Northern Bank

1819 Scarth Street
Regina



Original Name: The Northern Bank
Current Name: Northern Crown Building

Date of Origin: 1906
Date of Designation: January 13, 1989

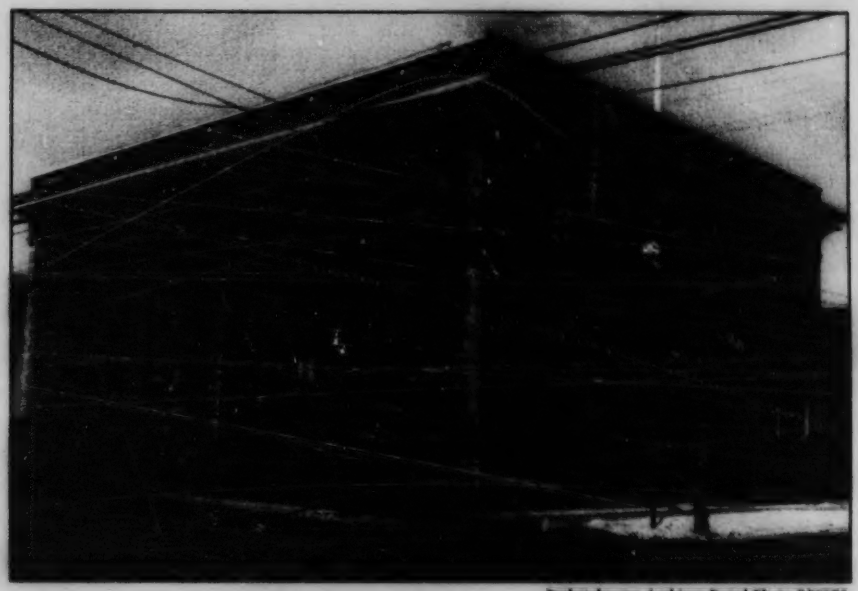
Owner: 615855 Saskatchewan Ltd.

Heritage Significance:

In 1906 the Winnipeg-based Northern Bank commissioned its architects, Blair and Northwood, to design its new Regina branch building. The result was this structure, with its Classical Revival facade. It is Regina's oldest downtown commercial building. In 1908, after amalgamation with Toronto's Crown Bank, it was known as the Northern Crown Bank. In 1918 this institution joined the Royal Bank, and the structure was sold. It has since served as a retail and office building. It was restored in 1988-1989 by the Fennell Companies.

Regina Telephone Exchange

1870 Lorne Street
Regina



Saskatchewan Archives Board Photo R86678

Original Name:	Regina Telephone Exchange
Alternate Name:	Regina Public School Board Office Annex
Current Name:	Administration Centre for Sport, Culture and Recreation
Date of Origin:	1913
Date of Designation:	December 10, 1998
Owner:	Sask Sport Inc.
Other Protection:	Municipal Heritage Conservation District

Heritage Significance:

In response to public demand for better telephone service, the Government of Saskatchewan established its own telephone system in 1908. The Regina Telephone Exchange is the oldest surviving building erected by Government Telephones. Built in 1913 to replace an earlier exchange destroyed in the tornado of June 30, 1912, it housed the government's first automatic dial switching station. Its prominent location and beaux-arts design by Regina architects Storey and Van Egmond proclaim the importance of the expanding telephone network to the people of Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan Government Telephones Head Office

2340 Albert Street
Regina

Original Name:	Saskatchewan Government Telephones Head Office
Current Name:	Royal Saskatchewan Museum Annex
Date of Origin:	1924
Date of Designation:	Notice of Intention issued December 2, 1999
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

As the first purpose-built head office for Saskatchewan Government Telephones, the building represents a significant step in the development of telephone service in Saskatchewan. The building was designed by the prominent Regina-based architectural firm of Van Egmond and Storey, and provides an excellent example of Government Telephones' policy of constructing attractive buildings designed to create an image of strength, stability and functionality.

Saskatchewan Revenue Building

1871 Smith Street
Regina

Original Name:	Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Building
Alternate Name:	Motor Vehicles Branch
Current Name:	Saskatchewan Revenue Building
Date of Origin:	1914
Date of Designation:	February 11, 1980
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

This building, designed by Regina architects Storey and Van Egmond, was constructed in 1914 as the head office of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company. Established in 1911, the company was one of the first major farmer co-operatives and became a forerunner of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool. In 1926, the two companies amalgamated and this building was vacated. It was purchased by the provincial government in 1928. From then until 1979 it was headquarters for the Motor Vehicle Division and was renamed the Saskatchewan Revenue Building.

Territorial Administration Building

3304 Dewdney Avenue
Regina

Original Name:	Territorial Administration Building
Alternate Names:	Ruthenian Training School; Grace Haven; North Central Community Centre
Current Name:	Territorial Administration Building
Date of Origin:	1890-1891
Date of Designation:	July 23, 1982
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

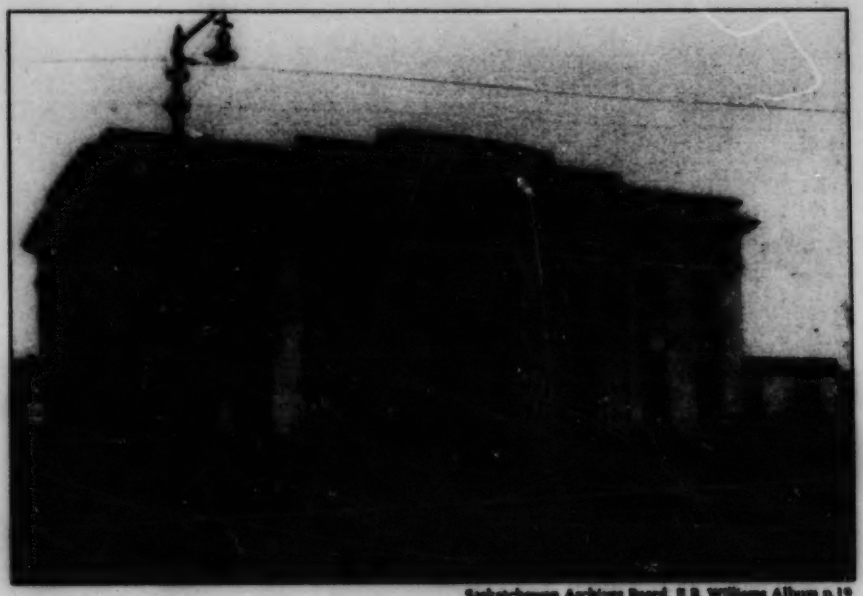
Heritage Significance:

Designed by Thomas Fuller, Dominion Architect, and constructed in 1891 to house the offices of the North West Territorial government, this building served the provincial government from 1905 to 1910. It was then used as a Ruthenian training school for immigrants from eastern Europe, a school for the deaf; and a school for mentally handicapped children. Nearly destroyed by fire in 1922, the building was repaired and leased by the Salvation Army until 1971 as a home for unwed mothers. The province restored this structure in 1979.

Union Station

1880 Saskatchewan Drive
Regina



Saskatchewan Archives Board, E.B. Williams Album p.19

Original Name: Union Station
Current Name: Casino Regina

Date of Origin: 1911/1931
Date of Designation: January 7, 1999

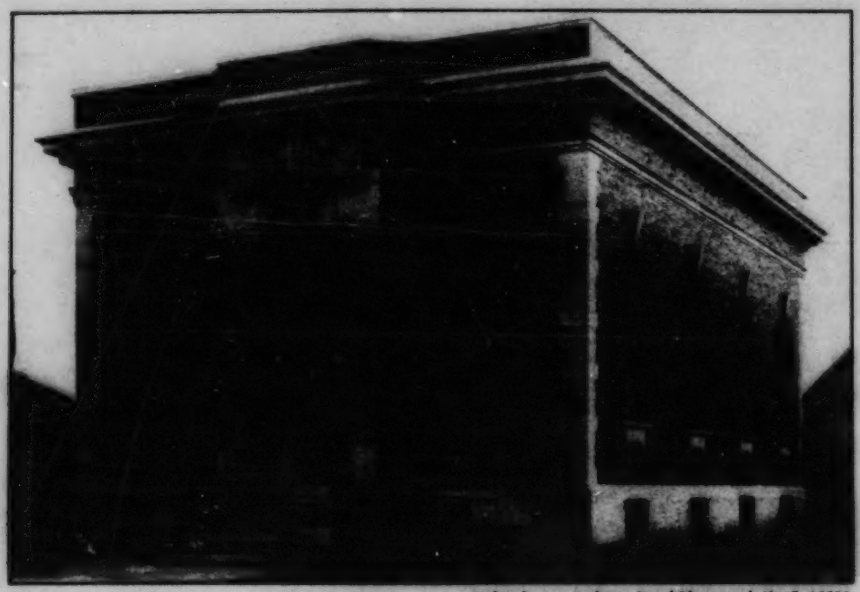
Owner: SGC Holdings Inc.

Heritage Significance:

Constructed from 1911 to 1912 by the Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station was designed to accommodate both the CPR and the Canadian Northern Railway, which later became Canadian National. A major expansion in 1931 added a new facade of Manitoba Tyndall Stone and some of the most impressive Art Deco interior design features in the province. The north side still exhibits elements of the 1911 architecture. The building's monumental style testifies to the importance of railways in the development of Saskatchewan. It was adapted for reuse as a casino in 1995.

Saskatoon Land Titles Building

311 - 21st Street East
Saskatoon



Saskatchewan Archives Board Photograph No. R-A5772

Original Name:	Land Titles Building
Current Name:	Brayford Shapiro Law Office
Date of Origin:	1909-1910
Date of Designation:	March 18, 1985
Owner:	Brayford Shapiro, Barristers and Solicitors

Heritage Significance:

This is the oldest provincial government office building in Saskatoon. It was erected in 1909 from designs by Storey and Van Egmond, the prominent Regina architects. By 1911 the structure was doubled in size, reflecting the rapid expansion in urban and rural population in the region. Land owners continued to register title to their property at this office until 1959, when a new combined court house and land titles office was established on Spadina Crescent.

University of Saskatchewan College Building

University of Saskatchewan
Saskatoon

University of Saskatchewan Archives

Original Name:	University of Saskatchewan College Building
Current Name:	University of Saskatchewan Administration Building
Date of Origin:	1910
Date of Designation:	November 24, 1982
Owner:	University of Saskatchewan

Heritage Significance:

This building was one of the first to be completed at the newly established University of Saskatchewan site. Originally called the College Building, it housed various departments over the years, and was most recently the centre for the University's administration office. Designed by architects Brown and Vallance of Montreal, a prominent national firm, the Administration Building is the key structure at the east end of the bowl, and stands as a distinguished landmark on campus.

St. Peter's College

Near Muenster
St. Peter RM No.369

Original Name:	St. Peter's College
Current Name:	Michael Hall, Placid Hall, St. Scholastica Building
Date of Origin:	1921
Date of Designation:	August 6, 1996
Owner:	The Order of St. Benedict of St. Peter's Abbey
Sites included in Designation:	Michael Hall, Placid Hall, St. Scholastica Building.

Heritage Significance:

St. Peter's Abbey, founded by the Order of St. Benedict in 1903, was Canada's first Benedictine abbey. In 1921, the Order established and constructed St. Peter's College, now called Michael Hall. It was designed by architects E. Brielmaier and Sons of New York as part of a larger complex featuring a towering cathedral. However, only Michael Hall was completed. A profusion of windows, some with Romanesque arches, and a sheet-metal roof highlight this impressive structure. Although the original site plan did not include Placid Hall at its present location, historical photographs indicate that it was constructed at the same time or shortly after the construction of Michael Hall. Placid Hall is clearly integral to the history of the Abbey, having served as the laundry and residence for the sisters associated with the community. It seems as though this building was modestly constructed, architecturally speaking, so that it didn't compete with the grandeur of Michael Hall. St. Scholastica, constructed in the mid-1950's, was used as a residence for those attending and affiliated with Michael Hall.

Holy Trinity Anglican Church

Stanley Mission

Photo Services Agency, Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Original Name:	Holy Trinity Anglican Church
Date of Origin:	1854-1860
Date of Designation:	August 26, 1981
Owner:	Saskatchewan Environment and Resource Management
Other Recognition:	Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Heritage Significance:

Constructed under the supervision of Rev. Robert Hunt, Holy Trinity Church is the oldest standing building in Saskatchewan. Its large proportions and towering steeple were in sharp contrast to the traditional one-room log churches constructed throughout western Canada in the latter part of the 19th century. Many of the interior wood features and the stained glass windows were brought to the site from England.

Swift Current Petroglyph

E of Swift Current
Swift Current RM No.137

Current Name:	Swift Current Petroglyph
Date of Origin:	precontact
Date of Designation:	August 27, 1990
Owner:	Dixie Green

Heritage Significance:

tes.

The Swift Current Petroglyph is an outstanding example of prehistoric rock art that has excellent potential for scientific research and interpretation of precontact First Nations symbolism and artistic expression. It is one of only five known petroglyph sites in the province with multiple carvings in their original location. Its stylized buffalo carvings are unique. The site is significant to contemporary First Nations peoples.

Doukhobor Prayer Home
Veregin

Original Name: Doukhobor Prayer Home

Date of Origin: 1917-1918
Date of Designation: July 23, 1982

Owner: National Doukhobor Heritage Village Inc.

Heritage Significance:

This impressive wooden building, with its two-storey wraparound veranda, once housed theresidence of Peter Verigin (upper) and the Community Prayer Home (ground). It is a replica of the original structure, built in 1908 and burned in 1916. Following the death of Verigin in 1924, his son, Peter, occupied the residence for a number of years. The building is currently used as a museum and community meeting hall.

Weyburn Court House

301 Prairie Avenue NE
Weyburn

Original and Current Name: Weyburn Court House
Date of Origin: 1928
Date of Designation: February 15, 1988

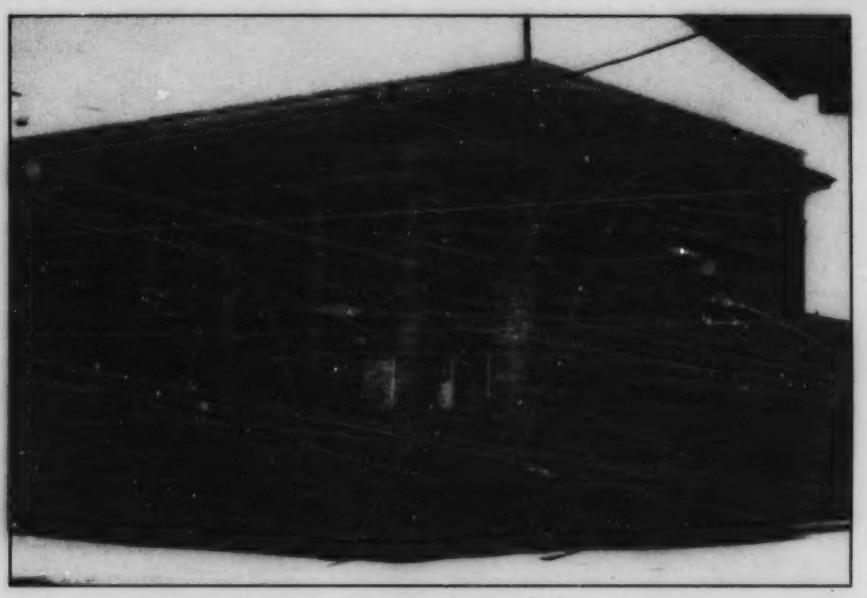
Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

Weyburn Court House was designed by Provincial Architect Maurice Sharon in a distinctive colonial style. Constructed in 1928, this elegant building expressed the confident aspirations of Saskatchewan towns in the last good harvest year before the depression. The colonial revival in architecture was inspired by American historic reconstruction at Williamsburg, Virginia. The construction of court houses in this style at Prince Albert, Weyburn and Estevan in the late 1920s symbolized the growing influence of the United States on the cultural and economic life of the province.

Weyburn Security Bank

76 - 3rd Street
Weyburn



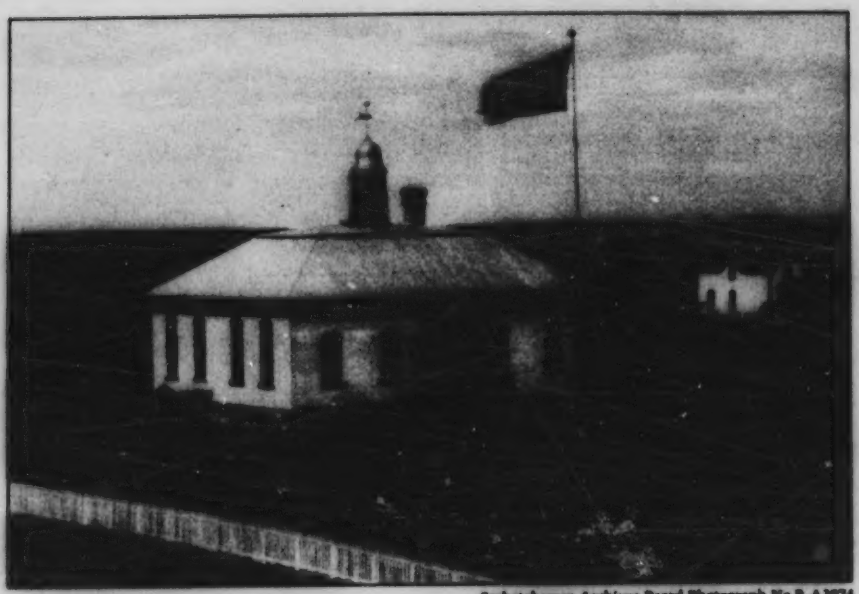
Original Name:	Weyburn Security Bank
Current Name:	Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce
Date of Origin:	1910-1911
Date of Designation:	November 24, 1982
Owner:	Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce

Heritage Significance:

The Weyburn Security Bank was the only Saskatchewan chartered bank to operate in this province. The bank functioned from 1910 until 1931, and had 32 branch offices at one time. As the head office, the design of this building reflects traditional bank institutional features to give the building a sense of security and prominence. Its white terra cotta facade adds greatly to its impressive character. The building is currently operated by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, which bought out the Weyburn Security Bank in 1931.

Wolseley Court House

SE corner of Ouimet and Richmond Street
Wolseley



Saskatchewan Archives Board Photograph No.R-A3974

Original Name:	Wolseley Court House
Alternate Name:	Boys' Detention Home; Home for the Infirm – Annex; Lakeside Nursing Home - Annex
Current Name:	Wolseley Court House Heritage Site
Date of Origin:	1894-1895
Date of Designation:	November 24, 1982
Owner:	Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

This is the oldest existing court building in Saskatchewan and the only surviving one built during the era of Territorial government. Designed under the direction of Thomas Fuller, Chief Architect for Canada, it was built in 1894-95 to serve the judicial district of Eastern Assiniboia. Following its closure as a court house in 1909, the building was used as a jail and as a boys detention home until 1921, when it became an annex to the newly constructed home for the infirm. An original metal flag pole still stands south of the building.

Wolseley Town Hall/Opera House

510 Varennes Street
Wolseley

Original Name: Wolseley Town Hall/Opera House
Current Name: Wolseley Community Centre

Date of Origin: 1906
Date of Designation: November 22, 1991

Owner: Town of Wolseley

Other Protection: Municipal Heritage Property

Heritage Significance:

In early twentieth century Saskatchewan, optimism was a chief driving force for many communities. Reflecting the view that growth was inevitable, many towns and cities built elaborate town hall/opera house structures. Wosley commissioned Manitoba architect J. H. G. Russell to design this, one of the most elegant such buildings in the province. Half the brick needed was produced locally, the other half manufactured elsewhere, giving the building a two-toned effect. The variety of architectural elements create the stucture's impressive design. The building was restored by the Town of Wolseley between 1990 and 1993.

Yorkton Court House

29 Darlington Street East
Yorkton

Original and Current Name: Yorkton Court House
Date of Origin: 1919-1921
Date of Designation: February 15, 1988

Owner: Saskatchewan Property Management Corporation

Heritage Significance:

Yorkton Court House was the first court building designed by Saskatchewan's Provincial Architect, Maurice Sharon. Its balanced appearance and authoritative beaux-arts style give an impression of order and dignity, qualities befitting the administration of justice. Construction began in 1919 and was completed in February 1921. Built of steel and reinforced concrete, and faced with Saskatchewan Clay Products brick and Manitoba limestone, this impressive building attested to the province's confidence in Yorkton's prosperous future.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

The following list includes all formally designated Municipal Heritage Properties. It also includes sites in the process of designation for which a Notice of Intention to Designate has been issued.

The Municipal Heritage Properties are listed in alphabetical order by the name of the designating municipality. At the beginning of each alphabetical section and at the top of each Municipal Heritage Property page in the directory a heading similar to the following appears:

Designating Municipality Community or Location	Original Name or Site Type, (Alternate Name Commonly Used), [Current/Proposed Name/Use]	Date of Origin	Date of Designation or Intention to Designate

Designating Municipality:

This refers to the urban or rural municipality in which the designated site is located and which is responsible for the designation. In most cases, this is the municipality that passed the bylaw ordering the designation. However, in a few cases, the original designating municipality has disorganized and no longer exists. In such cases, the "designating municipality" is the municipality now responsible for administering the designation.

For designations by Indian Bands, the site is listed under the name of the reserve on which it is located, with a cross-reference under the name of the band. If there is a community or locality name associated with the site, it will also be found under the name of the community e.g. "Dillon . . . see Buffalo River Band [IB 398]".

Community, Location:

For sites located in rural municipalities, an indication of the location of the site in relation to the nearest community is provided, e.g. "SW of Abernethy". If the rural site is in a hamlet or in an area that was once a village, the name of the locality is included, "Kenlis; SW of Abernethy". The site is cross-referenced under the name of the community.

Original Name or Type of Site, (Alternate Name Commonly Used):

This refers to the site's original name, for example - "Old Invermay Cemetery", or to the type of site if it had no specific name, for example - "Fire Hall". In cases where a site had an official name but was, or is now, more commonly known by another name, for example - "Zion Lutheran Church (Wheatwyn Lutheran Church)", this alternate name is listed in round brackets after the original name or site type.

Current/Proposed Name/Use:

Where a site is currently used for a different purpose than its original one, the current or proposed use of the site is included in square brackets, for example, "[museum]". In some instances, the site's current or proposed name is included, for example - "[Arcola and District Museum]". Where the site is still in use for its original purpose, no current or proposed use is given, for example, "St. Michael's Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church."

Date of Origin:

This entry indicates the date when a property came into being. In the case of buildings, this is the date of construction. Undated or multi-component archaeological sites are labelled "precontact." Natural heritage sites are flagged as "n/a".

Date of Designation or Intention to Designate:

This refers to the status of designation of the site. If only a date is shown, the site has been officially designated, with the designation bylaw having been passed on the date indicated. If a Notice of Intention to Designate has been issued for the site, but the designation has not yet been finalized, the date of issuance of the Notice appears with the notation, "Notice of Intention". If previous designations were repealed or expired, only the date of the most recent designation appears.
